Join Us! Succeed With Us in Our New Home!

Thirty-three years ago this month we asked the people of Marion and Crittenden county to believe in us. They did. At the close of the first year's business we had deposits of $50,000.00. We were encouraged. Since then, our deposits have crossed the $600,000.00 mark. We will soon move into our splendid new home at Main and Bank Streets. Where there is room, light and convenience. There is a special room for ladies, where they can write letters, we furnish the stationery. We want you to come and share these comforts whether you are a depositor or not.

We naturally wish that every man and woman in Crittenden county had an account with us. You don't have to be dressed up to secure courteous treatment. We are friends of workers and savers. Come right now.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION HELD SATURDAY

Last Saturday the democrats of this county held their county convention for the purpose of selecting delegates to the state convention held in Louisville Tuesday.

The following resolutions were adopted unanimously.

Resolved that we as democrats of Crittenden county, in Convention assembled, renew our pledge of allegiance to the Democratic party, the party of progress and construction, the party which from its very beginning has never deviated from its dedication to the cause of the "greatest good to the greatest number." We believe in it because of its progressive ideals, its love for the common good, and for its devotion to the principles of liberty and justice for all humanity. We heartily and unequivocally endorse the administration of Woodrow Wilson. Its record of accomplishments during the last seven years is the most magnificent ever made by any party or any administration in any country. We are opposed to any amendments or reservations or qualifications to the Versailles peace treaty, because they are unnecessary, and because none have ever been offered which were not born of partisan bias or else intended to prevent its ratification. We favor the immediate and unqualified ratification of this treaty so that the war may be terminated, and as the best means of guaranteeing peace permanently, so that all the peoples and nations of the world may again be restored to their normal functions. We condemn the present republican Congress. In the campaign for election they promised the people they would support the president in prosecuting the war, that they would aid him in making peace and would lower the taxes, and enact the necessary after the war legislation to put the country on a peace basis. In violation of their pledges they have refused to co-operate with the president, they have failed to either advise or consent to the peace treaty, the taxes remain as they were and instead of being lowered, they now propose to increase them, and no reconstruction legislation whatever has been enacted. We commend every agency which has aided or cooperated in the Woman Suffrage amendment to the United States Constitution. This amendment is of the most profound social and moral significance, and we welcome womanhood into the civic life of the state and nation.

The following named persons are selected as delegates from Crittenden county to the State Democratic Convention to be held in Louisville on May 4th:

Agricultural Column

Green manuring or plowing under of green crops is one of the oldest means used to maintain or increase the productivity of the soil. Green manure crops are especially beneficial to clay soils. For that reason green manuring is badly needed in Crittenden county. It tends to make soil more porous and less likely to puddle or bake and much less subject to washing.

The most important object achieved is the addition of humus to the soil. Other things being equal the best green manure crops are those which furnish the largest amount of material which will readily decay in the soil, and thus form humus. There are however some plants which furnish a great deal more humus than others. Deep rooted plants are decidedly preferable to shallow ones because they penetrate into the soil. In this way air and water find entrance especially after the roots decay. Thus in a way every deep rooted plant is a subsoiler. It is also supposed that such plants, especially when plowed under, tend to enrich the surface soil with potash and phosphorus from the subsoil, thus bringing the substances within reach of the shallow rooted crops. Legume plants are more valuable for green manure than other plants because they not only add humus but also use the nitrogen of the air which they add to the soil. For this reason legumes, if such are adapted to particular locality, where needed and can be sown at the time desired should be grown. Where it is not advisable to devote an entire season to the growth of a crop for green manuring, good results may often be obtained by growing catch crops between cash crops.

In Crittenden County we would recommend that you use rye or peas. Rye may be sown as a catch crop and turned under in the spring, for peas it is better to hog them down and then turn under the stems.

Enough profit will be secured from the hogs to more than pay for the seed and the profit to the soil will be more than you can imagine.

Before turning under a green manure crop be sure it is cut up perfectly with a disk or similar instrument. Plowing sod land may be said to be a species of green manuring, and as such would be included in this class.

Nitrogen and phosphorus are the two elements that first limit crop production here in our county. Phosphorus may be added in the form of acid phosphate or raw ground rock sulphate but it is cheaper to add nitrogen by growing legumes which are our best green manuring crops.

Why can't several progressive farmers form a partnership in their community to buy a pea threshing outfit and raise their own cow pea seed. If you would do this you would plant ten acres of peas instead of one, you would have enough hay and green forage for your stock and some to hog.

Do not plow your land while it is wet! Space forbids a full explanation but if you will call on me I shall be glad to explain my reasons fully.

DO YOU WANT A CLUB?

As you well know our Agriculture club has ceased to be an active organization with real live members. I hope the spirit has not died out but only waiting some call to service.

Our State club agent has been asked if he would give his support, but declined to do so because we have no county agent. We the children between the ages of 10 and 18 do not feel that we should be deprived of our club work so I am making an appeal to you to see if you will lend your support, by growing an acre of corn or a part of an acre of some other grain, tuber or root crop or a brood of chickens. I believe if enough will support the cause we can get the support of the state.

Prof. George Gumbert, agriculture teacher of Marion High School promises a county stock show if that should happen. We can have a County club and a county show even if the state will not help.

If any farmer or farmette or any business man or lady who has prizes to offer we would be glad that you do so at this time as you know "A prize in view causes a child to work through."

If you are interested write me within the next ten days, also tell your neighbors, for some are perhaps not readers of the Press. If enough will respond an appeal will be made in your behalf to the state agent. We will also organize a County club.

DOESN'T NEED ANY LAXATIVES NOW

Mr. Becker says life is a joy, without constipation or stomach trouble.

"I had catarrh of the stomach and head for three years. My stomach was so bad that every time I ate anything sweet, such as fruit or pastry, the burning hot water would run out of my mouth. I took a laxative every night."

"Since taking Milks Emulsion my bowels move regularly. I have now taken ten bottles and have gained 10½ pounds. All my friends remark how fine I am looking, and it seems a pleasure to live again, without stomach trouble."—Bert Becker, Marion, Ohio.

Physics usually make slaves out of them, and weaken the bowels instead of correcting them. Stomach trouble in many cases is directly due to constipation.

Milks Emulsion is a pleasant, nutritive food and a corrective medicine. It restores healthy, natural bowel action, doing away with all need of pills and physics. It promotes appetite and quickly puts the digestive organs in shape to assimilate food. As a builder of flesh and strength Milks Emulsion is strongly recommended to those who have been weakened, and is a powerful aid in curing and repairing the effects of wasting diseases. Chronic stomach trouble and constipation are promptly relieved—usually in one day.

This is the only solid emulsion made, and so palatable that it is eaten with a spoon like ice cream. Truly wonderful for weak, sickly children.

No matter how severe your case, you are urged to try Milks Emulsion under this guarantee—Take six bottles home with you, use it according to directions, and if not satisfied with the results your money will be promptly refunded. Price 6c and $1.20 per bottle. The Milks Emulsion Co., Terre Haute, Ind. Sold by drugists everywhere—Adv.

"For what they have received may they be truly thankful."

ALLIES ARE AGREED AS TO DARDANELLES

INTERNATIONALIZATION OF THE STRAITS IS ARRANGED BY SUPREME COUNCIL.

TWO COMMISSIONS PLANNED

Premier Millerand Says That France Asks Her Rights, and No More—Wants Germany to Recover Economically.

San Remo.—The plans for the control of the Dardanelles were formulated by the allied supreme council. The control will be exercised by two international commissions, one of these, an administration body, will regulate the traffic, fix the dues or the use of the straits and supervise affairs generally much the same as the Suez Canal commission does for the Suez waterway.

The other body will be a military commission having at its disposition forces which will be located in other parts of Gallipoli Peninsula and in parts on the other side of the straits.

Alexander Millerand, the French premier, received the American news paper correspondents, of whom eleven are here, and talked freely about the peace conference affairs.

"Our friendship with the American people," he said, "did not begin with 1914, but very long before that, and before you brought us the decisive help in the war, which now is such a precious recollection.

"I regret we could not have the direct active co-operation of the United States government in the preparation of the Turkish treaty here, but I am sure America will stand apart always from European affairs. I regret much more that the United States does not participate in the discussion of Germany's treatment of the treaty of Versailles, which will be considered tomorrow.

"I am confident that the Americans, whatever their points of view respecting the Germans are, have also sympathy for the victims of Germany. We wish to see her recover economically. A creditor does not wish to see his debtor ruined."

Administration officials studied them carefully but without betraying any indication that the position of this government would be other than that of an observer.

Pussfoot Johnson Predicts That England Will Go "Dry" in the Next Ten Years.

New York.—William E. (Pussfoot) Johnson, of Westerville, Ohio, returned here from Liverpool on the steamer New York, after literally having given an eye to make England dry. The crusading agent of the American Anti-Saloon League was met by a host of prohibition advocates.

Mr. Johnson predicted that England would have prohibition inside of ten years, and he further stated that other countries would follow the lead of the United States in less time than that.

Kansas City, Mo.—Representatives of virtually every wheat raising community in the United States, attending the annual convention of the National Wheat Growers' Association here, voted unanimously to form a huge combine for the control of the cereal products of the nation. STRENGTHLESS SEEMED DYING

So Weak She Cou'd Hardly Move, Says Indiana Lady.—One Bottle of Cardui Put Her on the Road to Recovery.

Tangler, Ind.—"Four years ago this summer I was sick in bed," writes Mrs. Lillie McElwee, of this place. "I had been under the doctor's care for five weeks, . . . I was pretty bad, and I was just as nervous as I could be. . . . I could not sleep at night until 10 or 12 o'clock. When I would doze off and wake up I would be all of a tremble with nervousness.

"The doctor called my trouble catarrh of the . . . It gave me such pains that at each one it would seem that I could not bear another one. Then I would chill . . . the pains would just seem to shake me all over, and the next day I would be so weak I could hardly move. I would be so utterly strengthless that it would seem as if I were dying.

"After one of my bad spells . . . and I had almost died, I picked up the Home Treatment Book and decided to try Cardui. Before I had taken a whole bottle, I could sleep at night . . . I don't remember just how long, but in a short time I was up and helping with the work . . ."

Over forty years of successful use has proven the value of Cardui in the treatment of many common female ailments.

All druggists sell Cardui, for women.

The Largest Animal.

Most boys have seen pictures of the huge lizard which roamed the earth millions of years ago, and is supposed to be the largest animal which ever lived. Searchers in Utah have discovered some bones of an animal which was twice the size of this great prehistoric animal. A hole 600 feet long and 80 feet deep had been dug when some claimed the land. The government thereupon created a National Dinosaur Monument, comprising the locality, which will be protected until the investigations are finished. The work is being directed by the Carnegie Institute, which discovered and assembled the skeleton of the familiar dinosaur.—Boys' Life for March.

"France asks her rights and no more. France does not hate Germany. We wish to see her recover economically. A creditor does not wish to see his debtor ruined."

Antoine departed with a resentful twist of the shoulders, and I decided to meet squarely the matter of the visitors who had so troubled him.

"Please don't be frightened," I said as lightly as possible, "but these old fellows haven't enough to do, and they are full of apprehensions. They have been alarmed by an agent of some sort who wants to welcome you to America by selling you a piano on easy payments."

Antoine had been hovering inside, and my remark brought him to the door.

"Beg pardon, Mr. Singleton, but that party is not an agent, but quite different, sir. He came to the house, quite like a gentleman, several times, and asked if Mrs. Bashford had arrived. He came in a big car, and seemed disappointed, madame, that you were not here and not expected. A very well-spoken gentleman, and we'd have thought nothing of it except that a few days later I caught a man I was sure was the same party, but dressed in rough clothes, sneaking across the veranda right where you're sitting. When I called to him he ran as hard as he could, and Graves—he's the vegetable gardener—saw him leaving the property by the back way."

"It's hardly possible that a man who impressed you as a gentleman when you saw him at the door should have returned in disguise and tried to break into the house."

"Oh," exclaimed Mrs. Farnsworth, "it would be so much more delightful if that were true!" Any one in disguise is bound to be interesting. A disguise suggests most beautiful possibilities."

I could not be sure in the dim light of the veranda, but I detected a white slipper cautiously reaching out and touch a black one. At any rate, Mrs. Farnsworth lapsed into silence.

"Thank you very much, Antoine," said Alice. "It is very proper for you to tell me anything of any stranger on the property, but I see nothing here to be alarmed about. If the same gentleman calls again, let me know instantly."

"Very good, madame." And then, turning as though conferring upon me a part of his responsibility for the security of the premises: "It's a party with a limp; just a trifling limp, sir; you'd hardly notice it. A smallish man, rather dark, with a little mustache turned up at the ends."

"I have noted all these details, Antoine," I replied; and again I thought there was a telegraphic exchange between the ladies though this time a black slipper was the means of communication.

Torrence arrived in a moment, and nothing has ever given me keener joy than his shock of surprise at beholding Mrs. Bashford. I was devoutly grateful that he had not been present at the dinner-table, for my own efforts to interest Torrence in anything but the more practical matters had always been highly unsuccessful, and the discussion of ghosts and witches would hardly have amused him. As Mrs. Farnsworth and I took up the recent movements on the western front I overheard Torrence putting all the machinery of the trust company at Mrs. Bashford's disposal. It seemed almost a blasphemy to be talking of income and like matters to a woman like Alice Bashford.

They continued their conference for some time, but I got nothing out of Mrs. Farnsworth that shed any light on my son's history beyond what she had told me herself, which was precious little. Mrs. Farnsworth's talk was that of a cultivated woman. Her voice interested me unaccountably; the tones had all manner of shadings and inflections; it was curiously musical, but in speaking of the great war a passionate note crept into it that stirred me deeply.

LADY LARKSPUR

By MEREDITH NICHOLSON

Copyright by Charles Scribner's Sons

"DON'T BE A FOOL!"

Synopsis.—Richard Searies, successful American playwright, confides to his friend, Bob Singleton, the fact that, inspired by the genius of a young actress whom he had seen in London, he has written a play, "Lady Larkspur," solely with the thought that she should interpret the leading character. The girl, Violet Dawson, has disappeared and Searies refuses to allow the play to be produced with anyone else in the part. Singleton has just returned (invalided) from France, where he had been serving in the aviation corps. His uncle, Raymond Bashford, a wealthy man, had contracted a marriage a short time previous to his return to France. He left Singleton a comparatively small amount of money and the privilege of residence in the "garage" of his summer home, Barton-on-the-Sound, Connecticut. Mrs. Bashford is believed to be traveling in the Orient. The household at Barton is made up of elderly employees of the Tyrringham, a New York hotel, where Bashford made his home. By the terms of his will, the house is to have a caretaker appointed, and Antoine, head of the establishment, informs him that he has been perplexed by some strange visitors. Antoine has formed the male members of the household into a guard for protection. Singleton reads "Lady Larkspur" with approval. "Aunt Alice" arrives unexpectedly, meets with a lively reception and turns out to be young and charming. Mrs. Farnsworth is her traveling companion.

"This has been a dark year for Alice," she remarked. "Mr. Bashford's death, followed quickly by that of her brother—an only son—piled a cruel burden of grief upon the dear child. She wants to go back to England to nurse the wounded, to do anything for our dear country, but I want to keep her here a little while until she can readjust herself. It is my task to encourage her in frivolity and the make-believe she loves—hence our absurdities at the table. She's the drollest child, but with wonderful understanding. And at times it's not easy to keep the divine spark of play alive in her."

The light of one of the porch lamps fell upon Alice's face as she patiently listened to her story.

"We were nearing a gateway where his car waited, and I saw several of the guard hanging about at a discreet distance. "Look here, Singleton," he said angrily, "you don't seem to take this business very seriously. You don't want to make the mistake of letting a pretty girl pull the wool over your eyes!" He lowered his voice and added tensely: "Those women are under suspicion of something more serious than an attempt to rob an estate. An agent of the state department called on me yesterday and asked embarrassing questions about Mrs. Bashford. Not a secret service man, you understand, or anything of that kind, but an important man in the state department."

"Of course you knew nothing to tell," I suggested.

"I took a chance at lying to him about her expected arrival. I thought it only decent to have a look at the woman first. He told me nothing except that the British embassy had made inquiries and that the matter was delicate and must be handled carefully."

"Was this this inquirer lame—a small dark man with a black mustache?" I asked, suddenly interested.

"Not at all! I may as well tell you it was Raynor—you probably remember him. He's a specialist in international law, and they took him into the state department just after the Lusitania business. He's a gentleman

TERMS OF TREATY MUST BE OBSERVED

ALLIED POWERS DECIDE TO BRING ECONOMIC PRESSURE TO BEAR IN GERMANY.

DETAILS NOT DECIDED UPON

British and Italian Premiers Are In Accord—Allies Will Not Accept Wilson's Proposal as to Turkey.

San Remo.—The interallied su-preme council began its formal session in the Villa da Vauchau on the hills to the northwest of the main town.

The premiers were agreed without a moment's discussion that Germany should be told in the most positive manner that she must observe the treaty; that the allies were firmly united upon this and that she should be warned of the punitive consequences should she refuse or fail to observe the treaty.

Premier Lloyd George suggested economic pressure depriving Germany of food, raw materials and intercourse with the allied countries. Premier Millerand is described as having said that such pressure without the use of naval or military aid, would in effect be no pressure at all.

Premier Lloyd George, it is said, resisted this conclusion. Premier Nitti, inclined toward the British prime minister's view, and the matter rests there for the present. A compromise may take the form for an ultimatum to Germany with the threat of applying effective compulsion without indicating what form the compulsion might take.

In considering the Turkish treaty he council decided to reply to President Wilson's note on the subject, giving him full explanations as to why it could not accept the polate he made in this connection.

The reply of the allies in thus supplying full information on this question is taken here to indicate their general attitude toward the United States government in treating the unsettled European problems.

The Turkish treaty was approved by the council in the general form in which it was drawn by the council of foreign ministers in London. Changes were made in two points, but these were not disclosed. It was decided to request the Turkish plenipotentiaries to present themselves in London on May 14 to receive the treaty.

BONUS BILL TO BE UP MAY 1

Alternative Compensation Plans Will Be Submitted for Consideration of Congress.

Washington.—Republican house leaders tentatively agreed to present a soldier relief measure to the house about May 1.

Besides carrying cash compensation the bill will include alternative offers of priority in land settlement, home building aid, and extension of vocational training. Two plans for adjusted cash compensation have been submitted by a subcommittee of the house ways and means committee, one granting $1 for each day's service, with no payments for the first two months of service. Under the latter plan, members said, those exempted because their service was less than 60 days and those serving for a longer period would be treated impartially, no payments being authorized to any one for the first two months' service.

IRISH IN RIOT RUSH TROOPS

Many Shots Fired By Both Sides and Eleven Wounded Are Rushed to Hospitals.

Dublin.—The town of Londonberry was in the grip of violent riots for four hours. A mob of civilians attacked a soldiers' club and a battle ensued. The troops beat off charge after charge until the police came to reinforce them. Then 200 soldiers marched out and cleared the streets, but immediately afterward a mob attacked the barracks in another quarter of the city. Many shots were fired. Eleven persons were removed to hospitals.

MEXICAN REVOLT SPREADS

Claim Is Made That Carranza Troops Are Deserting in State of Chihuahua.

Agua Prieta, Sonora.—The revolt against Carranza is gaining rapidly, military headquarters here reports.

Gen. J. M. Pina, commander of the Sonora troops in this district, announced that Gen. Francisco Urbalejo, with his Carranza force, at Santa Rosalia, Chihuahua, had revolted and would take the field for the Sonora movement. Urbalejo was reported to have 400 Yaqui Indians under his command. Unconfirmed reports of the revolts by other Carranza troops in Chihuahua also were received, it was said.

timated by the department of agriculture, the 1919-20 citrus fruit crop for Florida is estimated at 11,000,000 boxes; 6,700,000 boxes of oranges and 4,300,000 boxes of grapefruit.

Must Separate Races.

Washington.—The supreme court upheld the Kentucky separate coach act, requiring the separation of white and negro passengers.

Refuses to Make Bond.

Chicago.—John Grunau, president of the outlaw Chicago "Kardmen's Association," was taken to the county jail at Joliet by federal officials after he had refused to give $10,000 bond on a charge of violating the Lever act.

Rochester, N. Y.—Potatoes will not be served in Rockford restaurants until the price is materially reduced. All the local restaurant men have entered into the agreement, it was announced.

Cost of Government Heavy.

Washington.—It cost $5,025,176,000 to run the government for the first nine months of the fiscal year.

GAY WITH PLUMAGE OF BIRDS

BLowPIPE SIMPLE IN ACTION

THE ALLIED COUNCIL MEETS WITHOUT U.S.

MEMBERS OF WARLIKE TRIBE OF THE UP-PER AMAZON REMARKABLY EXPERT IN FEATHER WORKING.

The most numerous and most warlike of the many native tribes of the upper Amazon and its tributaries are the Mundurucos, each of whose settlements has its own military organization, with barracks in which the fighting men sleep, their arms at hand, always ready for battle.

The Mundurucos are the most expert feather-workers in tropical America, the warriors wearing beautiful garments of bird's plumage, with rosettes of brilliant feathers on the forehead, or sometimes diadems of alligator scales. The "sceptors" which the chiefs carry in the ceremonial dances are admirable works of art, being made by fastening upon a long wooden rod the white and yellow feathers from the breast of the toucan.

At its top such a "sceptor" expands into a wide plume composed of the long tail-feathers of meows and toucans. To preserve it from injury, the wand of authority is kept in a cylindrical case when not required for use.

As its speed of delivery greater than that of the propagation of the flame, in accordance with a scientific law laid down by a French official commission which inquired into the subject of fire-damp.

As far as it can be sensed, the feeling here is that the absence of America is only a temporary one, and that the reasons for her present dement are likely to disappear.

For the present, however, the prime ministers, foreign ministers and ambassadors of France, Great Britain, Italy, Japan, Belgium and Greece at the meeting are occupied with problems particularly affecting themselves and there is no disposition to dwell unduly upon the lack of American participation.

The decision to make the Turkish treaty the first business of the conference was not unexpected, as there appears to be general agreement that the Turkish question was one of the main reasons for the calling of the conference, it might as well be taken up at the very beginning.

It is surrounded by many perplexities, among them naval and military questions, such as the manner of policing

the Dardanelles, what form of control shall be set up in Constantinople, the delimitation of the boundaries of

Thrace and Armenia and the quo-tion of the Greek position in Smyrna.

Another subject which has not been much mentioned as yet, but which will be brought up before the council before its close, will be the condition in international exchange and the position

Less Fuel More Heat

Conserve the Coal Pile

with a Furnace

THREE is a secret back of the economy and heating qualities of Cahill Pipeless Furnaces. This secret is found in the castings—the parts of a furnace that count for most when the fire is laid and started. The Cahill castings are unusually heavy, thick and carefully fitted and finished, and when once heated they retain heat longer than most furnaces, thereby saving fuel and throwing off a greater and more uniform heat. Moreover, the heavy Cahill castings will withstand wear better than castings less sturdily made, which means less replacing of parts is required in a Cahill Furnace than in ordinary furnaces.

Cahill Pipeless Furnaces

The Cahill Furnace is the result of 40 years manufacturing experience, and embodies the same manufacturing ideals which have given to Cahill Grates and Fireplace Fixtures an enviable reputation for quality and dependability.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

$2.00 per year cash in advance

The overall fad—and fad it is—another foolish idea which will accomplish about the opposite of its aim. Already due to the increased demand and the alertness of the manufacturers to seize on every pretext to boost prices, the price of overalls has gone up, bringing a direct injury to the man of slender means who is compelled to wear overalls. This is no time to shift the demand from one commodity to another. Let the well to do stick to their overalls and the laboring men to their overalls and the profiteers will be cheated out of another opportunity to gouge the private purse.—YORK REPUBLICAN.

The Kansas City Star is authority for the statement that print paper sold as high as 15 cents a pound at wholesale in New York last week. That is seven times what it sold for three years ago. With this condition staring them in the face, many publishers will be forced to suspend their publications. No newspaper could be published continuously at the present subscription rate if the price of print remains where it is today. We are all in the same boat, drawing upon our accumulation or going in debt to buy paper to make good our subscription contracts, in the hopes that something may "turn up" to relieve the situation and permit us again to make a nominal profit on our energies and investment. In the job printing department the advancing prices can be passed on to the ultimate consumer. But it is not an easy matter to do this with the publication of a paper. In the first place subscribers are paid in advance—some of them as far as one and two years—and this constitutes a contract with the publisher which must be fulfilled regardless of what it costs him. Even should we attempt to raise our subscription price to where it belongs, there is grave question as to what extent the ordinary subscriber will go in the matter of accepting a justified advance. A newspaper must retain its subscription list in order to market its advertising space which is another important source of revenue and which must be zealously guarded in her hopes to meet the conditions of the day. It is in no sense a rosy outlook for the publisher who has all invested in his business. But he hasn't other alternative except to meet it, and do the best he can to keep his head above water until conditions return to normal, when he may again hope to receive a reasonable remuneration for his service and expenditures.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Harriet Caroline Towery was born August 13, 1845. Professed faith in Christ at the age of eighteen during a protracted meeting at Mt. Zion Methodist Church and joined the church there. When the family moved out west she transferred her membership to a Methodist church in Texas, and later to Prairie Grove, Ark. She lived a devout Christian until called to her reward, April 23, 1920.

She was the mother of four children. They are Frank, of Marion, Ill., Wiley of Denver Colorado, Mary and Margaret at home. She was also the stepmother of five children. Sister Towery was a devoted mother, a splendid neighbor and to know her was to love her. She and the two girls have lived together for so long that the home will never be the same because mother is gone.

The funeral was conducted by Rev. W. T. Oakley in the Towery Cemetery, in the presence of a large and sympathetic audience. An old landmark is gone. The grave was covered with pretty flowers. A loved one from us is gone, a voice we loved is still, a place is vacant in our home which never can be filled.

Little Perfections of Finish

DRESSING the young girl from about eight to sixteen years continues to make employment for expert designers who specialize in making clothes for all the younger generation. They know the needs of the little girls—thin ones and fat ones and all the rest—the characteristics of their immature figures and how to make them look their best. They appear this season to be giving much attention to details of finish in frocks and in variation in the cut and construction of them. Combinations of plain and figured materials and the management of the plaids, checks and stripes, that brighten the everyday dress of children.

To illustrate the last point, in the dress shown at the left of the picture above the skirt, sleeves and waist are cut on the straight of the material, but a panel at the front of the bodice and the pockets are cut on the bias. There is a white bar in the gingham which leads up to the white collar and cuffs and white facings on the pockets, finished off by white buttons that are set at each side of the panel.

Plain chambray trimmed with plaid gingham makes the neat dress at the right. The skirt has a border of gingham at the bottom, double box plait at the front and back and is shirred on the sides at the waistline. The bodice is cut out at each side to reveal the shirrings and where it is stitched to the skirt at the front three white buttons are set on. The collar, cuffs and sash are all of gingham. Black slippers and stockings are worn with these everyday dresses.

Plain chambrays and other plain cottons are daintily made for dresser wear with organdy collars. French knots and a little simple needlework are used for their decoration. Dotted Swiss for dress-up and party use is prettily made with very narrow, pleat edge, faille ribbon used with tucks as its adornment; the ribbon matching the dot in the Swiss in color. The prices on dresses of this kind have advanced to the place where most mothers find them too high; they are undertaking this sewing at home.

Choosing Your Silhouette

IN A SEASON that offers so much diversity in styles as we find this spring, women have all sorts of opportunity to please themselves, and therefore individualism has marked this time for its own. So many periods and so many lands have been drawn upon for inspirations! But they are only inspirations that tend a flavor more or less strong to the various styles of today.

Naturally, in this case, the silhouette swings all the way between very wide hip lines and the straight up-and-down figure, as may be gathered from the illustration of two afternoon frocks which appear here. One of these frocks is made of blue taffeta silk with a few small embroidered motifs emphasizing its style features. In the cascaded pannier drapery at each side of the skirt supporting wires, corded edges and the texture of the silk insure a wide hip effect without compelling the use of much silk. A little embroidery appears on this side drapery and on the front of the plain but odd over-bodice. There is a long apron drapery over the front of the skirt, and the back drapery is a trifle shorter. As silk is still very high, it is worth noting that drop skirts are made of a cheaper material, having a deep border of silk at the bottom, and this is the case in the frock pictured. Dark blue and black taffetas were never better style than this season, and designers have fairly surprised themselves in making beautiful afternoon frocks of them. Short or three-quarter length sleeves and lace or net sleeves prevail in the styles. Those with flaring cuffs, like the picture, are very popular.

The handsome dress of crepe de chine with its tassels down the front, its deeply fringed sash of crepe de chine and its plain sleeves cut to there carries an aroma of China in these details which is discernible in many suits as well as in afternoon and all-day dresses. At each side of the skirt there are plaited panels and the sash used is in a contrasting color lighter than the material used in the frock. A black dress with a blue sash or a navy with American Beauty sash are fine color combinations.

The New Feathers.

A new straw is much in evidence and varnished straw in tube form, cut into short lengths and stitched on to a foundation of net. It looks rather like the beads which enterprising youngsters used to make from macaroni. Feathers are much worn and may either be in stiff quills, stuck astian, propeller fashion, or in a straight, waving mass of fronds entirely covering the hat.

Corrugated Sports Gown.

A sports gown has a corrugated skirt of deep green silk with a green jersey. The sleeves and neck are edged with yellow.

Fetching Linen Smock.

Orange yellow linen makes a fetching smock. The collar is in sailor style and the sleeves reach the elbow with turnback cuffs. The slash pocket, the flared hip seam, the collar and cuffs are edged with small tabs of white cotton tape an inch wide.

Fashionograms.

A recent opening featured among other things the long tight sleeves and classical draperies which crossed in front over long skirts. Gilt hoops were used under chiffon. Waists showed embroidery and were topped with lawn collars and capes. Taffetas, as one might expect, constituted a very popular feature.

Short Sleeves for Spring.

Seven-eighths and shorter sleeves are to be seen on many suit jackets for spring, but these appear only on the suits of novelty cut; on the much-loved, generally acceptable tailored models the sleeves are wrist length as usual.

Don't Let Catarrh Drag

You Into Consumption

Avoid Its Dangerous Stage.

There is a more serious stage of Catarrh than the annoyance caused by the stopped-up air passages, and the hawking and spitting and other dis-tasteful features.

The real danger comes from the tendency of the disease to continue its course downward until the lungs become affected, and then dreaded consumption is on your path. Your own experience has taught you that the disease cannot be cured by sprays, inhalers, jellies and other local applications. S. S. S. is an excellent system-cleanser; it is not sold or recommended for Venerous Diseases.

S. S. S. has proven a most satisfactory remedy for Catarrh because it goes direct to its source, and tends to remove the germs of the disease from the blood. Get a bottle from your druggist today, and begin the only logical treatment that gives real results.

The Whole Secret of A Better Tire

Simply a Matter of the Maker's Policies

This you will realize—once you try a Brunswick—that a super-tire is possible only when the name certifies that the maker is following the highest standards.

For tire making is chiefly a matter of standards and policies—cost plus care. Any maker can build a good tire if he cares to pay perfection's price.

All men know Brunswick standards, for Brunswick products have been famous for 74 years.

Formulas, fabrics and standards vary vastly in cost. Reinforcements, plies and thickness are a matter of expense. And these variations affect endurance. It rests with the maker how far he wishes to go—how much he can afford to give.

For there are no secrets nor patents to hold one back.

INTERESTING LETTER FROM MRS. HARPENDING

Mr. Editor and readers of the Crittenden Press—While it rains let me come and visit and chat with you awhile.

The health in our neighborhood is fairly good, that terrible and deadly flu has about made its disappearance from this community, but Oh! the many sad homes it has left behind.

Well dear readers the much looked for Spring is again making its appearance. We can look out and see the old and young trees putting on their coats of green, the grass is shooting their tiny heads through the ground to beautify Mother Earth again, the fruit trees are in full bloom, the little birds are as busy as bees, and especially the sweetest of birds—the mocking bird so listen to the mocking bird.

The farmers are all busy plowing and planting their crops, the good housewife is always busy from early morn till late at night taking care of her little "tots" preparing meals for her tired husband, milking, churning, taking care of the butter, washing and ironing, and there is the setting of hens to be done, the baby chicks to care for, and eggs to gather up in the evening, and when the basket is full the plow must stop and take them to market before the price comes down, for if it wasn't for eggs our tables would be poorly furnished these hard times, with provisions of all kinds so high. We poor farmers that make anything to sell have to take what we can get and then we buy our groceries and things we are compelled to have from those same people and pay them their own price, or do without them but we think we see a silver lining behind the clouds for us for we now have the Federal Highway running through the middle of our farm but I don't care as long as I can sit out in front of the house and see so much traffic and basting all the time. But our old eyes have got tired seeing so much so we will let it stay where it is and it may be that if our great, great grand children live to be as old as we are, they may see this road, as we see it in our imagination, but none of us will care which way it goes.

Well Mr. Editors how are you on woman's suffrage? Are you for or against it? As for myself I do not think it nice for a woman to go to the polls and vote. I think her place is in the home attending to household affairs. If she is entitled to vote I think she is entitled to work the roads and pay her poll tax same as a man. While we have lots of women that are well educated and well posted on government affairs and know how to vote, there are many others like myself, that would not know what they were voting for, but I will drop that subject and say a few words to the younger set especially to our young boys. Now boys and girls I am seventy-six years old, and I want you to remember, and not forget what I say to you. If you live to be grown up men and women and wander away from home. Remember one thing, don't forget your mother as long as you live you will be little folks to her, they never think that you grow up when you were little shavers your mother did more for you than any one else would ever do. She went day after day, year after year, doing hard, disagreeable things for you. I know this is not so with some of you girls and boys, but I want to say it to all of you.

It was mother who sat by you at mid-night, when you were sick, trying to soothe you, and cool your fevered brow, shedding tears and praying to God to not let the little spark of life go out. It was mother's you went to, to tie up the stubbed toe, to pick the thorn out of your foot or finger, or get something out of your eye. It was mother who rocked you to sleep and put you to bed and kissed you "good night".

If you are away from home write her a letter every week so that she will know you are well, and that you think of her. For when you are away from home, you are the last thing she thinks of at night so boys remember and love your mothers. I have read in the papers of so many of our dear boys being killed in France on the field of battle and their last words would be "tell mother".

Well dear readers the sun shines bright in our old Kentucky home this morning, and all nature seems gay, and while I am too feeble to get out and enjoy spring time as I once did, I am glad to see that others can. Here is a little stanza that I used to say when I was a child, when spring had come:

"The lark is up to meet the sun
The bee is on the wing.
The ant, his labors has begun
The woods with music ring."

So now young people, get out and have a good time while you are young, you will get old some day. Girls go straight and do not do anything you would not want mother to know. I will stop and wish a gentle spring-time, a happy spring-time to all. MRS. VICTORIA B. HARPENDING.

If paint could be sold at so much a square yard of covering, this would quickly show why a gallon of Hanna's Green Seal is more economical than "cheap" paint. Add to this Green Seal's longer service, and new light is shed on the question "Which paint is cheapest?"

You need a trustworthy paint on your property. One that gives the maximum of covering protection and beauty. The exact formula appears on every package of Green Seal Paint.

OBITUARY

Walter Hughey Wigginton was born November 7, 1873 and died April 25, 1920 at the age of 46 years five months and twelve days. He was married to Flora Scott May 29, 1898. To this union were born five children, three boys and two girls. Victor, Leora, Vera, Arthur and James all living. He professed faith in Christ while young and united with the Cumberland Presbyterian Church at Flat Rock and was elected elder and so remained until death. He died in Evansville Indiana after an operation. The funeral was conducted by Rev. W. T. Oakley at the family residence in the presence of a very large number of friends. Walter numbered his friends by the score and no man was more appreciated than he. He leaves to mourn their loss a wife, four children, three grand children, a mother, two sisters, three brothers and a host of relatives and friends. He was a grand son of Uncle Dock Green, that wonderful character that so many people know. The body was laid to rest in the Livingston Cemetery. The floral offerings were beautiful. The home, the community and the church will miss him. I speak the voice of many people when I say he was a good man. "Safe in the arms of Jesus, safe on His tender breast, there by His love unfailing, sweetly thy soul shall rest."
